Paul Sartori Foundation is Charity of the Year for local employer

Staff at the Port of Milford Haven have selected the Paul Sartori Foundation as their 2017 cause of the year.

The hospice at home service will now benefit from financial support, plus help with fundraising and volunteering activities from the Port's 170 strong workforce.

Charity manager Sandra Dade welcomed the news: "The Paul Sartori Foundation is thrilled that the Port of Milford Haven team have selected us as their charitable cause of the year.

"Support from local businesses such as this helps our charity in many ways to sustain our vital hospice at home service. This announcement has sent a real buzz amongst our own team and we are all looking forward to working together with the Port throughout our special 35th anniversary year."

Anna Malloy, of the Port, said: "The work of the Paul Sartori Foundation and its wonderful team of staff and volunteers is providing a much valued service across Pembrokeshire and we're delighted to be able to support them throughout 2017.

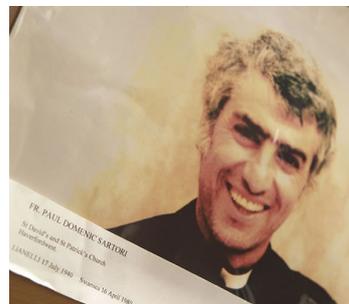

"Our staff are always keen to help out with our elected charity and there will be plenty for us to get involved with over the next twelve months."

Corporate Sponsorship Request

The Paul Sartori Foundation is appealing to businesses or individuals to consider working with a local charity and to help make a difference. The campaign for sponsorship has been launched recently due to the move to our new head office in a few months' time. We are passionate about working with companies to create successful partnerships that deliver a real difference to people living in the final stages of a life limiting illness as well as their families, friends and carers. New corporate partnerships are vital in supporting the Foundation's aims in continuing to provide sustainable services that promote good end of life care in Pembrokeshire.

"This is a great opportunity for individuals or businesses, locally or further afield to link up with a high profile charity. A number of organisations these days have a community obligation and wish to appoint a charity of the year to sponsor. What better charity to support than the Paul Sartori Foundation," explained Judith Williams, Project and Funding Coordinator for the Paul Sartori Foundation. "This year is a big year for us, as we move our Head Office and we celebrate our 35th anniversary. We are lucky to secure such great support, but we would be very grateful to companies to consider this request. We have low cost options to suit various budgets," added Judith

In answer to a query from the Volunteer Questionnaire.

Hello, my name is Diana Webb and I am the newest member of the Counselling & Support Team.

I am a professional Accredited Integrative Counsellor and member of the BACP and I am both employed by, and volunteer for, Paul Sartori

Foundation. I started my career as a group worker at an alcohol and drug rehabilitation centre, trained as a one-to-one counsellor and joined Canterbury University Counselling Team to counsel staff and students but it was when I trained with Cruse Bereavement that I discovered my passion for working with people who are dying and with those they leave behind

When I moved to Pembrokeshire in 2015, I suspected a rural population was unlikely to sustain an inpatient hospice. What I found at Paul Sartori Foundation were dedicated, skilful and passionate staff, with expertise across many disciplines, who deliver the best quality of hospice care to people in their homes. I am delighted to join such a friendly professional team. When I'm not counselling, my husband and I are very much 'hands on' renovating an old farm to create a Christian retreat centre; so life is full!

COSTINGS

Slightly over budget for unforeseen reasons, but we have a small pot of grant money to cover this, so we are still OK.

Please be reminded that the Foundation is spending money on Paul Sartori House that has been realised/going to be realised from the Foundation's property portfolio. The Board is passionate about retaining gifts and donations from the general public for their intended purpose we hope everyone is assured and will continue to share this message with other interested parties.

A steering committee met before Christmas to discuss decorations, we talked about paintings, wall colours, plants, but all agreed to wait until we are in and we get a feel for the place.

WORKSHOP

Thank you to all employees who attended the Change Management Workshops run free of charge by JCP Solicitors. From these workshops we gather that the communications have been sufficient. However, the general consensus is that there is a need for a Paul Sartori House progress Q & A sheet which will be drawn up soon and distributed.
